DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-5 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Chen (USP. 7,119,777).

Regarding claim 1, Chen disclose an electroluminescent display device in Fig. 3 and 4 comprising: a plurality of pixels; a pixel selecting transistor (210) provided for each of the pixels (Fig. 3); an electroluminescent element (240) provided for each of the pixels (Fig. 3); and a driving transistor (220) provided for each of the pixels to drive a corresponding electroluminescent element according to a display signal supplied through a corresponding pixel selecting transistor (Col. 3, Line 65), the driving transistor (220) comprising a channel of a P type and being of a lightlydoped-drain type (Col. 4, Line 43-52).

Regarding claim 2, Chen disclose in Fig. 5 a region (227) of no doped impurities that is disposed between the gate electrode channel of the P-type and the P-type impurity region (Col. 6, Line 49) (Fig. 5).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Chen (USP. 7,119,777) in view of Chen (USP. 6,946,689).

Regarding claim 5, Chen (777) disclose the electroluminescent display device as set forth in the claims but not go to details of a glass substrate. Chen (689) disclose in Fig. 2 a glass substrate (202). Thus, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Chen (777) by providing the glass substrate as taught by Chen (689) in order to provide a rapid thermal process to drive the implanted dopants into the polysilicon layer (Chen (689), Col. 3, Line 50).

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 3 and 4 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

7. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

Prior art fails to disclose or suggest in combination with the remaining claimed limitation: a high concentration region containing a P-type impurity with a concentration of 1×10^{20} /cc or more and being in contact with an electrode, and a low concentration region containing a P-type impurity with a concentration of 1×10^{18} /cc or less and disposed between the high concentration region and the channel of the P type in claims 3 and 4.
